Law 3 & The Vision

The story of the Western King has been unsealed since 1948 when Israel became a nation again and the time of the end began: yet, the Scholastics continue to disregard the words of Jesus that speak of the Western King events as being future to Himself and as occurring during the 2300 days. This obstinance, or ignorance, stems primarily from one foundational misstep in their analysis; a lack of adherence to the elementary Laws of Biblical Thermodynamics.

Just as there are laws of thermodynamics that govern the physical processes of the universe – matter cannot be created nor destroyed: all things go from order to chaos – there are also inviolate biblical laws that govern the processes of biblical analysis. The 3rd Law of Biblical Thermodynamics declares that all unfulfilled prophecies in the Bible will be fulfilled exactly as written, just as have all fulfilled prophecies been fulfilled exactly as they were written. As pertains to the authenticity of Law 3, two universal realities exist: (i) secular history fully documents the fulfillment of numerous prophecies from the Bible; and (ii) secular history has no record, whatsoever, of any fulfilled prophecy coming forth from any written document of any other religion.

Long before Nebuchadnezzar conquered Jerusalem and took Daniel captive in 606 B.C., the prophets Isaiah (740 - 680 B.C.) and Jeremiah (629 - 570 B.C.) foretold exactly how and why Israel's fall would occur. These two prophets were sent by God to warn the inhabitants of Jerusalem that the city would be destroyed by the king of Babylon for their having forsaken God and worshiped other gods; and that they would be in servitude to Babylon for seventy years.¹

Jeremiah specifically states that God will punish the king of Babylon and his nation when Israel's seventy years of servitude are accomplished, which He did seventy years after the servitude began. And most impressive of all, Isaiah actually names Cyrus (590 - 529 B.C.) as the king who God would use to bring down the Babylonian empire.² Appendix V contains a list of the historically documented prophetic scriptures that have been incorporated into this writing concerning the era of Daniel, Nebuchadnezzar, and the Babylonian empire. It is not happenstance that these historically documented biblical prophecies have been fulfilled exactly as they were written. It is proof of God and reason to believe that Daniel's prophecy will be fulfilled exactly as it is written.

There are three distinct sections within the story of Daniel 8: (i) the anachronistic portion concerning America and the Western King, (ii) the actions of the antichrist who rises out of one of the four notable kingdoms, and (iii) Gabriel's interpretation. The following, in the order of appearance, is the vision's dramatis personae along with the various names for each.

A ram with two horns: Madai and Paras, Media and Persia, the Kurds and the Iranians.

-the lesser horn: מדאי, Madai, Media, the Kurds.

-the higher horn: פרס, Paras, Persia, Iran.

A he-goat with a notable horn: יון, Yavan, the nation now known as America.

-the notable horn: the first king of Yavan, the Western King, the king from the west.

Four notable kings from the four winds of heaven.

A little horn: the antichrist, the king of fierce countenance.

Jesus: the Prince of princes, the prince of the host (army).

Gabriel: the angel.

Part I: The Western King (8.1-8)

In the third year of the reign of king Belshazzar [539 B.C.] a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, after that which appeared unto me at the first. And I saw in a vision; and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at Shushan [Susa] in the palace, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river of Ulai.

Then I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, there stood before the river a ram which had two horns [the Kurds and Iranians]: and the two horns were high; but one [Iran] was higher than the other, and the higher came up last. I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward; so that no beasts might stand before him, neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand; but he did according to his will, and became great.

And as I was considering, behold, an he goat [Yavan] came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and the goat had a notable horn between his eyes [the first king]. And he came to the ram that had two horns, which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power.

And I saw him come close unto the ram, and he was moved with choler against him, and smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him: and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

Therefore the he goat waxed very great: and when he was strong, the great horn was broken; and for it came up four notable ones toward the four winds of heaven. (8.1-8)

The only thing Daniel is told about the assault on the armies of the Kurds and the Iranians by Yavan – the nation now know as America – is that the first king of Yavan is in a great rage, the cause of which is unknown. Also unknown is the method by which the first king is broken soon after having become great and strong from his overwhelming victory. What is known is that for the nation of Yavan to become great and strong after its victory, it must be not great and not strong prior to its assault. Since America is currently the greatest and strongest nation on the earth, it appears that America must radically decline prior to Opening Day of the 2300 days, the day when the Kurds and the Iranians initiate their seemingly unstoppable blitzkrieg against their neighboring countries.

Part II: The Little Horn – a.k.a. – The Antichrist (8.9-14)

And out of one of them [the four notable kingdoms] came forth a little horn [the antichrist], which waxed exceeding great, toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the pleasant land. And it waxed great, even to the host [armies] of heaven; and it cast down some of the host [the armies of heaven] and of the stars to the ground, and stamped upon them.

Yea, he magnified himself even to the prince of the host [armies], and by him the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down. And an host [army] was given him against the daily sacrifice by reason of transgression, and it cast down the truth to the ground; and it practised, and prospered.

Then I heard one saint speaking, and another saint said unto that certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host [armies] to be trodden under foot?

And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed.

This section of the story outlines the general battle plan the antichrist will follow when he rises up in the midst of one of the four notable kingdoms. Having been given supernatural powers by Lucifer, he will mock God, raise an army, attack his neighboring countries and take over the Temple mount in Jerusalem. With the Temple under his control, the antichrist will stop the daily sacrifice and commit the transgression of desolation; an act of sacrilege in the most sacred room of the Temple, the Holy of Holies. Daniel then learns that it will be 2300 days from Opening Day of the Iranian-Kurdish aggression against their neighboring countries to the cleansing of the Temple by the Messiah (Jesus at the Second Coming).

Of all the deceptive and misleading datum propagated by the Scholastics to justify the biblical and historical fallacies of the Alexander tradition, some of the most egregious are the varying explanations as to why the 2300 days are not really 2300 days. Many commentators just ignore the 2300 days and make no mention of them at all, while some claim the days are in fact years.

This latter supposition was certainly a possibility up until 1967 which was the 2300th year from Alexander's defeat of Darius III in 333 B.C., at the Battle of Issus.

Most Scholastics try to circumvent the 2300 day Law 3 violation by alining themselves with a 'partial fulfillment' supposition. This theoretical loophole through which they attempt to wiggle argues for a gap of indeterminable length between the reign of Alexander's generals as the four notable kingdoms and the rise of the little horn, the antichrist. The justifying precedent most frequently adopted for this proposed gap in time is the following prophecy of Isaiah concerning the future actions of the Messiah that was only partially fulfilled by Jesus.

The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me; because the LORD hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn. (Isaiah 61.1-2)

Some eight hundred years after Isaiah's prophecy, Jesus came to His home village of Nazareth soon after being tempted for forty days in the desert by Lucifer. While in the synagogue there, He stood up and read the scripture du jour which was from the book of the Isaiah.

And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up for to read. And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias. And when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written,

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, To preach the acceptable year of the Lord."

And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him. And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears. (Luke 4.16-21)

The scripture that Jesus proclaimed fulfilled in the ears of those in the synagogue on that Sabbath day was only the first part of Isaiah's prophecy; the proclaiming of the acceptable year of the Lord. He closed the book without reading the remainder of the sentence in which the Messiah proclaims the day of vengeance of our God. Because He knew Israel would soon reject Him as the Messiah, Jesus understood that this latter proclamation would be put off until the latter part of the 2300 days when He will be on His way back to planet Earth with the armies of heaven. In the case of Isaiah's 'partially fulfilled' prophecy, a clear and distinct delineation is made by Jesus between the acceptable year of the Lord and the day of vengeance of our God. As to the 2300 days of Daniel's prophecy, no such delineation is made: 2300 days are 2300 days. Only a tradition of men can redefine them into whatever.

Part III: The Interpretations of Jesus and Gabriel (8.15-27)

And it came to pass, when I, even I Daniel, had seen the vision, and sought for the meaning, then, behold, there stood before me as the appearance of a man. And I heard a man's voice [Jesus] between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

So he [Gabriel] came near where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man: for at the time of the end shall be the vision. Now as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep on my face toward the ground: but he touched me, and set me upright. And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation: for at the time appointed the end shall be.

The ram which thou sawest having two horns are the kings of Media and Persia. And the rough goat is the king of Grecia: and the great horn that is between his eyes is the first king. Now that being broken, whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power.

And in the latter time of their kingdom, when the transgressors are come to the full, a king of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, shall stand up [the antichrist]. And his power shall be mighty, but not by his own power: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the mighty and the holy people. And through his policy also he shall cause craft [deception] to prosper in his hand; and he shall magnify himself in his heart, and by peace shall destroy many: he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes; but he shall be broken without hand.

And the vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true: wherefore shut thou up the vision; for it shall be for many days. And I Daniel fainted, and was sick certain days; afterward I rose up, and did the king's business; and I was astonished at the vision, but none understood it.

Gabriel's explanation of the vision leaves little to the imagination. No matter how it may be otherwise portrayed by the Scholastics, the numerous statements as to the vision being for the time of the end are irrefutable, just as is the fact that the vision is for 2300 days.

The Olivet Discourse

The most important element to the timing of Daniel's vision is the direct reference to the vision by Jesus in an address to His disciples concerning the signs of His return and of the end of the current Jewish age. In what is known as the Olivet Discourse, Jesus speaks of two distinct periods of time that will immediately precede His return, the beginning of sorrows which is to be followed by great tribulation.

The Olivet Discourse was prompted by the fact that Jesus had just been officially rejected by the Jewish religious hierarchy as the prophesied Messiah, and He knew He would be crucified a few days later. As Jesus departed the Temple after Israel's rejection, He looked out over Jerusalem and lamented the coming fate of the Jewish nation.

O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!

Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

And Jesus went out, and departed from the temple: and his disciples came to him for to shew him the buildings of the temple. And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

And as he sat upon the mount of Olives, the disciples came unto him privately, saying, Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world [age]?

And Jesus answered and said unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows. (Matthew 23.37 - 24.08)

Jesus goes on in the discourse to describe various details of world happenings that will occur after the conclusion of the beginning of sorrows and before His return. He then summarizes the discourse with a reference to Daniel's vision. The event that Jesus calls the abomination of desolation is the same event as the transgression of desolation in Daniel's vision.

When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, (whoso readeth, let him understand:) Then let them which be in Judaea flee into the mountains..... For then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be. And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened. (Matthew 24.15-25)

Since Daniel's transgression of desolation is the same event as Jesus's abomination of desolation, it would appear that the great tribulation portion of Jesus's discourse will basically fall within the same time period as the antichrist portion of Daniel's vision. This, in turn, necessarily renders Jesus's four specific details in the beginning of sorrows account parallel to the four chronological events in the Western King portion of the vision. Therefore, when the 2300 days begin with Madai and Paras pushing against their neighboring countries, it would appear that many shall come in the name of Jesus, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many. These occurrences are to be followed by wars and rumours of wars.

Daniel 1) Aggression of Madai and Paras
 2) Yavan assaults Madai and Paras
 3) Yavan broken
 4) Rise of the four notable kingdoms

Jesus 1) Deception of false christs
 2) Wars and rumours of wars
 3) Nations and Kingdoms against each other
 4) Famines, pestilences, and earthquakes

One aspect of the beginning of sorrows portion of the Olivet Discourse that needs clarification is the critical distinction between the Greek words that have been translated as nation and kingdom. It is generally accepted that the word for nation – “ethnos” – means a non Jewish race, tribe, or nation. Ethnos is unquestionably the correct Greek word to describe America and Iran and all the other countries of the world. It is used 164 times in the New Testament in direct reference to nations of the earth.

The Greek word for kingdom – “basileia” – is defined in most lexicons as royalty, realm, and/or kingdom. What is lost in translation, however, is that the vast majority of the 162 usages of, “basileia”, refer to the Kingdom of God while the remainder refer to the kingdom of Lucifer in some form or fashion. In general, “basileia” is either the Kingdom of Heaven or the kingdom of earth over which Lucifer has temporary authority. This means that when Yavan is warring with Iran and the Kurds as nation against nation, Jesus will be warring with Lucifer in the heavens as kingdom against kingdom. For the record, Lucifer loses and is thrown to Earth into the midst of the human race to go out and vent his rage for the remainder of the 2300 days.

Also for the record, forty years after Jesus told the disciples that there would not be left here one stone upon another [of the Temple] that shall not be thrown down, the prophecy was fulfilled. In 70 A.D., the Roman army overran Jerusalem and burned the Temple to the ground. To get to all the Temple gold that melted during the fire, Josephus records that the Romans removed the walls and foundations of the Temple stone by stone, verifying the veracity of the 3rd Law of Biblical Thermodynamics.

The Little Horn Controversy

The interpretational unanimity of the Scholastics with the story of the Western King comes to an abrupt end with the appearance of the little horn. The Jewish sages teach that the Roman general, Titus, was the little horn that comes out of one of the four notable kingdoms established by Alexander's four generals. As to all the references in the vision to the time of the end, the sages contend Daniel was referring to the time when the wicked of Israel in the Second Temple would come to an end. In their teachings, Daniel's vision was brought to full completion when Titus destroyed the Second Temple in Jerusalem in 70 A.D.

Another school of interpretation claims the little horn was Antiochus Epiphanes, a Syrian king who conquered Jerusalem in 168 B.C. Because he sacrificed a pig in the Temple, some believe he fulfilled the desolation spoken of by Jesus and Daniel. Even though this teaching has had a minority following, there have been some very well-intended Scholastics who defended it to their deaths. The most notable of these was Arno Gaebelein (1861-1945), author of "The Annotated Bible", who writes of Daniel's vision and the little horn as follows.

"And all this [about the little horn] has been fulfilled in Antiochus Epiphanes. When he had conquered Jerusalem he sacrificed a sow upon the alter of burnt offerings and sprinkled its broth over the entire building. He corrupted the youths of Jerusalem by introducing lewd practices; the feast of tabernacles he changed to the feast of Bacchus. He auctioned off the high priesthood. All kinds of infamies were perpetrated by him and the most awful obscenity permitted and encouraged. All true worship was forbidden and idol worship introduced especially that of Jupiter Olympus. The whole city and land was devastated and some 100,000 pious Jews massacred. Such has been the remarkable fulfillment of this prophecy."

And one final item for the record. Most of the Scholastics, at some point in their in-depth commentaries on Alexander and his generals, reluctantly make note of the fact that there might be a future fulfillment to all of the events in Daniel's vision. Typical of the reluctant tone of these admissions is that of Sir Robert Anderson, one of the more respected biblical historians ever to take to pen. In his book, “The Coming Prince”, written in the late 1800's, he does all but apologize for suggesting their might be a future fulfillment of Daniel’s vision.

And the rise of the Grecian empire under Alexander, followed by its division among its four successors, is typified by a goat with a single horn between its eyes, which horn was broken and gave place to four horns that came up instead of it. Out of one of these horns came forth a little horn, representing a king who should become infamous as a blasphemer of God and a persecutor of His people.

That the career of Antiochus Epiphanes was in a special way within the scope and meaning of this prophecy is unquestioned. That its ultimate fulfillment belongs to a future time, though not so generally admitted, is nevertheless sufficiently clear. The proof of it is twofold. First, it cannot but be recognized that its most striking details remain wholly unfulfilled.³ And secondly, the events described are expressly stated to be “in the last end of the indignation,”⁴ which is “the great tribulation of the last days,”⁵ “the time of trouble” which is immediately to precede the complete deliverance of Judah.⁶

It is unnecessary, however, further to embarrass the special subject of these pages by any such discussion. So far as the present inquiry is immediately concerned, this vision of the ram and the he-goat is important mainly as explanatory of the visions which precede it.

This mind set is, unfortunately, the current norm amongst the Scholastics: “any such discussion” is considered an embarrassment to their “special subject” of commentary on the book of Daniel. In spite of their adherence to the Alexander anachronism, Daniel’s story of the Western King will, unquestionably, have an “ultimate fulfillment” at some point in the future. The combined forces of Madai and Paras, for reasons and methods left unrevealed, will provoke a not great and not strong Yavan into a rage induced assault at the Ulai river. After becoming great and strong from his victory over the two kings, the first king of Yavan will be broken and his dominion will be claimed by four notable kings. So says Law 3 to the Casual Christian.

Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure. (Isaiah 46.9-10)

General Order of Events

1948 – Time of the End Begins

America becomes not great and not strong
 Madai unites the Kurdish people
 Paras is the fourth king to rise in Iran
 Kurds break with America and ally with Iran at the Ulai river

The 2300 Days

Opening Day – Madai and Paras begin pushing against their neighboring countries the beginning of sorrows begins many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many nation shall rise against nation kingdom against kingdom
 Madai and Paras provoke Yavan
 Yavan retaliates against Madai and Paras
 Yavan becomes great and strong the first king of Yavan is broken
 four notable kings stand up in place of Yavan
 Lucifer is thrown to earth into the midst of the four notable kingdoms

Second Coming

1. Jeremiah 20.4-5; 22.8-9; 25.11-12
2. Isaiah 44.28
3. Anderson Footnote: I allude to the 2300 days of verse 14, and to the statement of verse 25, “He shall stand up against the Prince of Princes, but he shall be broken without hand.”
